Description

One of two. An all mahogany side chair with a crest rail that features a five lobe carved shell flanked by leaf scroll carving that also extends onto the upper portion of the splat. The ends of the crest rail attach to the rear stiles with a volute. The open work, carved splat is enriched with further acanthus leaf carving and a tassel in its center. It connects to the rear seat rail with a bow shaped shoe. The raked rear stiles, slightly flaring at the top, end in a trifold foot variant, whereas the front legs, enriched with leaf carving on the knees below the seat rails, end in claw and ball feet. The front and side seat rails have a thumbnail molding around their upper edge. The front rail is further ornamented with a band of gadrooning along its underside. The side seat rails attach to the rear stiles with a bracket shape that is part of the rail, not an applied ornament.
