Salt glazed stoneware

Description

An ovoid crock, with body tapering to footless rim, two strap handles at the shoulders, incised bands around the shoulder line, and dark grayish brown body color with mottling due to long kiln firing. The crock's thick lip rim is warped from kiln firing, and the interior is entirely coated in dark brown Albany slip. On the front of the crock, a freeform floral sprig is rendered in dark blue cobalt glaze. On the front of the lip rim center is impressed "Humiston & Cummings / S. Amboy," with a splash of cobalt blue as a highlight.
