

Woman's Day Gown

Medium

Silk, silk fringe, glazed cotton

Description

A woman's two-piece day gown of emerald green silk, consisting of fitted bodice, skirt, separate corselette belt, and sash with attached bow. The bodice is constructed with a high round neck, front button closure, sloped shoulders and dropped shoulder seams to fitted long sleeves, and princess points front and back. The entire bodice is lined with glazed white cotton and with cased bonings strips. The separate skirt is cut full, with cartridge pleats to a wide side-closure waistband fastening with large brass hook and eye closure, slight train, fully lined with glazed white cotton and an additional wear strip facing sewn to the skirt hem. Additional accessories include a matching corselette belt, with high points at front and eyelet laceup closure at front. The second accessory item is a removable sash with front hook and eye closure and attached flat bow with streamers. Light green silk fringe is applied to the bodice to form a "capelet" effect, as well as on both sleeve ends. Fringe is also applied to the bow and streamers of the sash accessory. Handwritten in ink on the inside of the removeable sash/bow is "E. Yard."
