Dress

Medium

Cotton muslin, cotton net

Description

A woman's gown of lightweight plain woven cotton muslin, constructed as a one-piece garment. The gown includes a wide, shallow boat neck, high waistline, front bodice with two fitting darts, long sleeves with wide upper arm sections narrowing to closely-fitting wrists. The sleeves end in a band of broderie anglaise and net eyelet foliate embroidery, flanked top and bottom with five narrow rows of tiny piping. The skirt is gathered to the waistband with narrow gauging, flaring out slightly to hem elaborately ornamented with three rows of 13 piped bands alternating with wide bands of broderie anglaise and large circle eyelets with inset cotton netting panels. The gown has a rear closure with small thread buttons and thread loops as fastenings.
