Description

The center of the lithograph contains a very detailed map of the Howell Iron Works located in Howell Township,

Monmouth County. A stream impounded by two dams runs from northwest to southeast diagonally across the map. Twenty-seven buildings are depicted, including the blast furnace, coal depot, office, store, carpenter shop, enamelling furnace, carriage house, dwellings, bakery, and smith shop southeast of the stream, four grist and saw mills on millraces originating at the two dams, then four ranges of houses and a frame church northwest of the stream. These nineteen buildings are all titled on the map, eight others not being identified. Three vignettes at the top and sides of the map depict the appearance of the buildings from three vantage points lettered A, B, and C and marked on the map. The views are identified by letter and compass direction, with the structures again named. Hand coloring has been added to the map and vignettes. Buildings have been colored red or blue. Water has been picked out in blue, and trees in green. The background of the map is light tan.
