

Basic Detail Report

Dimensions

53.5 in. (135.9 cm)

Cloak

Primary Maker

James Reed

Medium

Wool, velvet, steel

Description

A man's riding cloak of heavy brown worsted wool. The cloak is cut on the full circle with an 11-inch back vent and an additional overcape of matching fabric attached along the neckline, falling just below the wearer's forearms. The cloak also has a wide dark blue velvet padded collar, quilted on the underside. The cloak's lining is of rough olive green linsey-woolsey fabric. The cloak fastens with three buttons and a short length of steel link chain and hook at the neckline. The buttons appear to be of carved shell and covered with matching brown wool. Arm slits are cut into the left and right sides of the cloak beneath the overcape, with single-button closure flaps.